OVERVIEW

Ortho-Bionomy is a gentle body work that has its roots in Osteopathic medicine. The principals of Ortho-Bionomy are based the philosophy: "Allow the body to correct itself." As an Ortho-Bionomy student, Jennifer Hickel has been learning the techniques to help a body find comfort in discomfort and change the patterns that have developed in the body that may be causing pain. Ortho-Bionomy Practitioners use gentle body movements and positions to help the body release patterns of stress within the body. This non-forced work allows the body to respond quickly. This work is gentle enough that it can be used with small children and so effective that it can be used with horses. Jennifer works with horses, dogs and their people. Alternative|Integrative Medicine
