OVERVIEW

Seattle area equestrian and pet photographer capturing the mystique and beauty of horses, working farms, beloved animals and the human interactions that unfold within each. With my brand, 4005 Images, I photograph and capture the majesty of wild horses. You could say that this very specialized line of photography found me, much in the same way that horses captured my heart. Horses are very responsive to their instincts and it's a lesson we can all learn from them: Follow what drives you. That's how I arrived at this career. It also helps that I've loved and ridden horses since early childhood. With an indelible bond and many cherished memories shared with my own horse, Liberty, I wholly relate to the deep human-horse connections I find in others. This same bond extends to other animals, pets and their human companions—and I love capturing it all on camera. I embrace the challenge…
