OVERVIEW

Seven Hills Training is a premier dressage training and equine rehabilitation facility located in Monroe, Washington. We specialize in bridging the gap between veterinary medicine and athletic performance. Our program integrates the wisdom of classical dressage with the insights of modern biomechanics to develop horses that are balanced, adaptable, and correctly conditioned. We provide a private, drama-free learning environment tailored for the dedicated rider. Whether you are starting a young horse, refining upper-level movements, or rehabilitating a horse after an injury (including specialized care for ECVM and cervical malformations), our individualized programs prioritize steady progress and long-term soundness. Our facility is co-located with Kinetic Equine Medicine, allowing for a unique, seamless integration of clinical care and physical reconditioning.
