OVERVIEW

Skagit County has a long and strong 4-H tradition. Approximately 500 youth between grades K through 12 are educated by around 100 leaders throughout the county. The horse project is one of Skagit County's most popular projects. Horse clubs are located all over Skagit County - for a current list of clubs please contact us! The program is active year-round and teaches youth responsibility, confidence, and general life skills through project participation. The Skagit County 4-H programs are delivered by the WSU 4-H Program Coordinator. The 4-H volunteers are dedicated, caring adults who work in cooperation with the county extension office.
