OVERVIEW

Stacey's art is noted for its vibrant and energetic style, making her work instantly recognizable. At 16, a profound family tragedy altered the course of her life, leading her to channel her emotions into her dynamic contemporary animal, equine, and sporting art. Growing up near Woodinville, WA, Stacey spent countless hours riding her half-Arabian gelding, Seraphim, on the local trails, fostering a deep connection with animals that inspires her work today. Since childhood in Seattle, Stacey's passion for art has been unwavering, and her distinctive pieces are now cherished by collectors from the United States to Dubai. Her work attracts a global audience through exhibitions in international galleries and features in lifestyle magazines. Stacey also connects with her followers through social media, where she shares updates on her latest endeavors. When she's not creating, she treasures time spent with her family, often drawing alongside her red-haired grandson, Benjamin, as they...
