OVERVIEW

“The Fighting Breed” tells of the accomplishments and tribulations of the Morgan horse in the Civil War. While the Morgan horse holds the position of being America’s first native breed, no documentary film, as of yet, exists that chronicles its remarkable story. Creating such a documentary will provide a tool to celebrate the Morgan and to educate the public to its significant contribution to America’s history. Producing historical documentaries is often a race against time. That reality rings particularly true in the case of this project. Currently, there are a number of venerable Morgan horse enthusiasts, both highly knowledgeable and getting upwards in years, who offer valuable insights and perspectives. Should this wealth of information not be documented very soon, it will be lost forever. The Morgan’s involvement in our history is so pervasive that its story parallels the building of America. It was the breed of choice of the U.S. Cavalry and...
